Keeping Dr. King's dream alive

Local celebration highlights life, goal of civil rights activist

JAMES CALVERT

Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was only 38 when his life came to an untimely end outside the Lorraine Motel in Memphis. This year he would have been 83. King's dream, which he described in his "I have a dream speech" is 48 years old and it was apparent to those in attendance at the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Day celebration at St. Monica Catholic Church Monday, the dream was still alive.

Members of the community met at 11 a.m. to discuss King's legacy, followed by a prayer at St. John's AME Zion Church at 219 E. Brashear Ave. The group departed in a motorcade that ended at St. Monica Catholic Church on South Third Street, where people of different races and denominations gathered to celebrate with music and prayer.

Pastor Billy G. Jenkins Jr. was the keynote speaker at the Martin Luther King Day celebration at St. Monica Catholic Church Monday. In 2000, Jenkins was awarded the Whitney M. Young Jr. award for commitment to social justice. Jenkins read quotes from a Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. letter written when he was imprisoned for peacefully protesting in Birmingham in 1963.

This year's mistress of ceremonies was Ann Bowdan, who is an anchor-person and reporter at WLKY in Louisville. Bowdan opened the ceremony and introduced speakers and performers. Seating was scarce and folding chairs were brought out to accommodate the crowded church. Some people stood in the back of the church.

"If you take a look around at this packed sanctuary, his dream is being fulfilled right now," Bowdan said. "There are still things that need to be realized. That's why we meet every (year) and we can't stop his dream yet."

Kim Hickman, a parishioner at St. Monica, took the day off from work to help out with the celebration. She handed out pamphlets at the door that listed the names of speakers and performers and helped with other parts of the service. Hickman talked about what the day meant to her.

Crashes, fatalities down in 2011

jcalvert@kystandard.com

The number of Nelson County highway fatalities decreased slightly in 2011 compared to 2010, according to figures released by the Kentucky State Police headquarters in Frankfort.

Last year nine people died on Nelson County roads, down from 12 fatalities in 2010. There were also fewer fatalities statewide with 760 in 2010 and 716 in 2011.

Alcohol-related crashes in Nelson County rose slightly from 57 in 2010 to 60 in 2011 but the number of alcohol related fatalities are down in Nelson County. Statewide, there were

Debate continues on what to do with old library building

Decision delayed again by Fiscal Court committee

ERIN L. MCCOY
emccoy@kystandard.com

Any decision on the future of the Old Library Building on Bardstown's Court Square may be delayed several more months, but plans to move the planning commission and code enforcement offices there are uncertain.

Nelson Fiscal Court's building committee met Monday with representatives of the Joint City-County Planning Commission and Nelson County Code Enforcement to discuss the future of the building.

The former library houses the Fine Arts Bardstown Society gallery, but FABS doesn't pay rent to use the facility and the county is losing money on the building, said District 2 Magistrate Sam Hutchins, a building committee member alongside District 5 Magistrate Jerry Hahn.

"We're paying to heat and cool a building that we are getting zero income out of," Hutchins explained Tuesday.

Off and on for a few years, the county has discussed moving the planning commission from the Old Courthouse to the Old Library Building, and moving code enforcement there as well from its building at 115 E. Stephen Foster Ave. Code enforcement's building is not in the best condition, and any investment to improve it would not be worthwhile, Hutchins said.

But another reason to move the two entities into

Icy roads cause vehicle to strike two on BG roadside

STAFF REPORT

A woman is still in serious condition after an SUV struck two individuals standing outside their vehicle on the shoulder of the Blue Grass Parkway Sunday morning.

As of early Tuesday afternoon, Samantha J. Purtee, Ohio, was still in serious condition at University of Louisville Hospital, according to Community and Media Relations Manager David McArthur. A second patient, Jeremy Napier, Ohio, had been discharged by that time.

Nelson County Sheriff's Dep. Ramon Pineiroa was reportedly on scene at the 17-mile marker of the Blue Grass Parkway, where a single-vehicle, non-injury accident had occurred. According to a press release from the sheriff's office, the driver of the vehicle, Purtee, and a witness to the accident, Napier, were standing outside the vehicle on the shoulder of the roadway.

Several minutes after Pineiroa's arrival, at about 9:49 a.m., an SUV driven by Carri E. Crisp, Owensboro, reportedly lost control on the icy roadway, struck a guardrail on the roadway's right shoulder, then struck Purtee and Napier.

The sheriff's office reported that Nelson County EMS transported Purtee to Flaget Memorial Hospital, from where she was immediately airlifted to University of Louisville Hospital. Nelson County EMS drove Napier directly to University Hospital, the press release said.

Emergency services did not transport Crisp.

Icy road conditions were believed to be the cause of both accidents, the sheriff's office reported.

JOINT CITY-COUNTY PLANNING COMMISSION

Airport Road quarry project suspended

emccoy@kystandard.com

Plans to start quarrying rock on a property off Airport Road have been delayed by the property owner, Nally and Haydon Holdings, LLC.

At a public hearing Tuesday, the company's attorney, Jim Willett, asked the Joint City-County Planning Commission to suspend a letter of credit that was a condition of the initial rezoning approval in 2007.

Nelson Fiscal Court requested a performance bond along with a letter of credit as a condition of the rezoning to ensure against any possible damages to the Nelson County Landfill from blasting at the quarry. According to planning commission Director Janet Johnston-Crowe, the landfill is "immediately adjoining" the property.

A property sits between the two sites, according to Willett.

"Our expert says there's no way we're going to damage the landfill," he said.

The property is on the southwest side of Airport Road, about 1,400 feet northwest of Boston Road and 40 feet west of Ben Irvin Road, according to the planning commission.

After the rezoning to I-2 heavy industrial in 2007, Nally & Haydon purchased the Cedar Creek quarry on KY 245 and began to remove rock from that site.

"They have a supply of rock that will allow them not to have to operate or open the new quarry," Johnston-Crowe said.

Little work has been done on the Airport Road property thus far, according to Willett. "There was only some initial blasting for testing but the last time that occurred was like two-and-a-half years ago."

Downed lamppost

Bardstown Electric was unsure Tuesday how a Colonial-style lamppost at the intersection of East Stephen Foster Avenue and the entrance to the Nelson County Justice Center was knocked over. Because the pole and base were broken, a replacement for the entire lamppost will have to be ordered, and may take up to 16 weeks to arrive, according to Electric Superintendent Jeff Miller. The post was removed Tuesday.

Angel and snowman tree sponsorships slightly lower than last year

jcalvert@kystandard.com

The number of people who sponsored families and children through the Snowman and Angel Tree programs was a little bit down for Christmas this year, but more families requested assistance this holiday season, according to Lysa Drake, community service coordinator at Nelson County Community Action.

"We had 102 families with 220 kids in one day," Drake said. "That was pretty overwhelming for one day."

Nelson County Community Action took more applications in 2011 than in 2010 and extended the deadline by a week to allow families to apply for assistance with putting gifts under the Christmas tree for their children. When the deadline to apply for assistance passed, Drake said 471 families with 1,116 children had been sponsored by Community Action's snowman tree program and the Bardstown Optimist Club's Angel Tree program.

But at the last minute, more families came to Community Action requesting assistance.

During the last four days before Christmas, 61 additional families with 147 children made requests for assistance from Community Action.

In total, Community Action provided assistance for 532 families with 1,263 children this Christmas. Drake said there were about four families that could not be helped because they could not be contacted.

"Everyone else, we were able to get something," Drake said. "It might not have been what they wanted but it was something."

One of the factories in Nelson County that sponsored about 50 children in 2010 only sponsored 10 children this year.

"A lot of people lost their jobs this year, so there aren't as many people who are able to help," Drake said.

"Without the help of our community the children of Nelson County would not have had a Christmas," Drake said. "What really helps with the Christmas program is that we are a close-knit community. Community Action works with the Family Resource Centers and the Bardstown Police Department in checking to make sure there are no duplications."

Families may apply for either the Angel tree program or the Snowman tree program, but not both. The Bardstown Optimist Club sponsors an Angel Tree, with ornaments that contain the name, age and wish of the children of a low-income family. Nelson County Community Action has a Snowman Tree, which lists the names, clothing sizes and wishes of children. Both trees were in Walmart in Bardstown.

Community Action coordinates the angel and snowman trees to try to prevent families from receiving more assistance than they need, Drake said.

Did You Know?

Did you know that almost 1 out of every 3 people in the United States will develop shingles?

Shingles, also known as zoster or herpes zoster, may develop in anyone who has recovered from chickenpox. It usually starts as a painful rash on one side of the face or body and can affect the eye and cause loss of vision. Even after the rash clears up, people can have severe pain in the areas where they once had the shingles rash.

The only way to reduce the risk of developing shingles and the long-term pain that can follow shingles is to get vaccinated. The vaccine is currently recommended for persons 60 years of age and older.

At Crume Drug Store, we offer many vaccinations, including the shingles vaccine. Come in and consult with one of our pharmacists to see what vaccinations you would benefit from.

New Year, New Traffic Alcohol Patrol

Bardstown Police Chief, Rick McCubbin recently announced that the Bardstown City Police will begin a patrol that looks for people driving under the influence of alcohol. In 2010 Nelson County had 60 collisions involving drinking drivers. Six of these collisions were fatal and caused the death of seven people. These collisions caused 60 percent of the traffic related deaths in Nelson County that year. Thirty-two people were also hurt in alcohol-related crashes. All o these fatalities and injuries were preventable.

“Driving under the influence is a very serious offense that puts all citizens of Bardstown at risk. The Bardstown Police Department wants to be proactive in keeping these offenders off of our city streets. Officers assigned this shift will be looking solely for DUI offenders,” McCubbin said. The Traffic Alcohol Patrol (TAP) begins in January.

The program is being paid for by the PATH Coalition and a grant from the KY-ASAP Heartland Trail Board.

For more information, call Chief McCubbin at 348-6811.

First Hardin Co. baby of year from Bardstown

KELLY CANTRALL

LANDMARK NEWS SERVICE

With a due date of Feb. 9, Kelley Jo Walton and Billy Joe Schmidt never expected to have the first baby born in 2012 at Hardin Memorial Hospital.

The Bardstown couple delivered Aylah Brey Schmidt at 9:12 p.m. on Jan 1, one of the latest New Year’s deliveries that the Hardin Memorial Hospital staff could remember.

A few days before, Walton was having some issues with her pregnancy and was worried that she would deliver early. But she didn’t expect it to be this early.

“It was definitely a shocker,” Walton said.

Aylah was born just a few hours after Walton and Schmidt arrived at the hospital.

“It all happened so fast, I can’t really recall what I was thinking,” Walton said.

Walton overheard a nurse say after the delivery that Aylah was the New Year’s baby for HMH, and she was surprised that her 9 p.m. delivery was the first of the day. No one else came to the Birthing Place until later that night.

“That’s awesome,” she said of her daughter being the first baby, “but it’s not good because she’s so early.”

Kelley Jo Walton and Billy Joe Schmidt, Bardstown, hold their newborn daughter, Aylah Brey Schmidt, the first baby born in Hardin County in 2012.

Aylah was in the Intensive Care Unit, but at five pounds and five ounces, she was doing well and the hospital will continue to monitor her progress.

“She’s here, she’s healthy, that’s all that matters,” Walton said.

The couple and their first child received several gifts from the hospital, including an engraved silver cup commemorating the first baby of the New Year given by Clark Jewelers.

Walton said seeing her daughter for the first time was a feeling she’d never experienced.

“It’s just something you can’t describe in words,” she said. Schmidt said it was “a miracle that she’s here,” he said.

“It was like the happiest day of my life yesterday,” he said.

Walton was excited about the new baby clothes from the hospital, and said it could add to the gifts she will get at her baby shower in a couple weeks. They didn’t plan for Aylah to be in attendance.

“She’s going to be one of the gifts at the baby shower,” she said.

Lights, Camera ... Auction! a success

The 12th annual Bethlehem High School Lights, Camera ... Auction! “Singin’ in the Rain” event in 2011 was once again a huge success. More than 440 people enjoyed a great meal catered by Ladyfingers Catering, Louisville, and entertainment by the Bethlehem Auction Ensemble.

Sponsored by Boone’s Butcher Shop, the event features a live and silent auction, which always spark friendly competition among the guests. Items this year included condo stays, signed sports memorabilia, and dinners. The live auction featured a bid-off between a Calipari signed basketball and a Pitino signed basketball. The U of L ball won the competition by $50, going for $1,450. The Silent Auction saw a rush of excited bids for items from overnight stays to sporting events tickets.

Always highly anticipated is the drawing for the $10,000 Raffle. The winners this year were Pat and Terri Wathen. Other winners included: Tonja Bischoff, who had the right key to open the treasure chest which held a Pandora multi-strand concept bracelet; Mary Kay Jett, winner of a Panama City Vacation in the Heads or Tails game; and Brent and Debbie Terrell, who chose the Gulf Shores Condo with their winning Golden Opportunity ticket.

Celeste Dawson returned to chair the auction for the second year. Jeff and Julie Hayden headed up the Decorating Committee. Special thanks to Mary Stuart Haydon for heading up the Solicitation Committee; Mike Boly and his reliable setup crew; Julie Conway and Debora Monin for taking on the Filcon Construction Wheel of Chance and the Live Auction setup; and Patty Nevitt for providing all the great food for the many volunteers. Many volunteers, alumni and parents spent the past 10 months in preparation for the event. This event is dependent on all these wonderful volunteers and their hours of participation. Bethlehem High School extended thanks to all who helped.

Employers: Open your doors to United Way

For the second year in a row the United Way of Nelson County is having to dip into its reserves to come up with the amount needed to fund the organizations under its umbrella.

The United Way of Nelson County gives to 20 charities that help the community in some form or another. But this year, as requests for funds increased, the fundraising efforts have decreased — down by 15 percent in 2011.

The reason for the decrease in fundraising is also the reason for the increase in requests from local organizations — the economy.

The United Way of Nelson County gets much of its money via payroll deductions. Local workers have signed up with United Way to have small amounts of money deducted from each paycheck. The amount can be as little as $1 — but through a year, that becomes $52. The theory is that if everyone can donate a little, it multiplies to become quite a large amount.

But with some companies laying off employees and others leaving this community to set up shop elsewhere, the number of employees being involved through payroll deductions have decreased, thus United Way fundraising has decreased.

The United Way of Nelson County could team up with Metro United Way in Louisville to relieve some of its funding woes. But that means it has less control concerning where Nelson County's funding goes. As it's set up now, 95 percent of the money collected by the United Way of Nelson County returns to help organizations and groups in Nelson County. That's one giant incentive to keep United Way of Nelson County in Nelson County and under local control.

What we need to do is encourage local businesses to open their doors to the United Way. Give employees a chance to participate in payroll deductions. It can be dispersed in such small amounts that employees won't even notice the change in their paychecks. In addition, it's a one-stop shop to donate to many local organizations. With a donation to United Way, you donate to American Red Cross, America's Second Harvest, Bethany Haven, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, NELCASA, Compassionate Friends, Bardstown/Nelson County Learning Center, Legal Aid Society, New Life Center, RSVP & SCP, Central Kentucky Transportation TACK, Senior Citizens Meals On Wheels, Voluntary Action of Nelson County, The Caring Place Domestic Violence Shelter, Family Resource Center of Bardstown, New Hope Food Bank, Nelson County Community Clinic, Village Family Resource Center, St. Vincent DePaul Mission Store, and Nelson County Family Resource Center.

So let's open our doors and invite United Way in to speak with local employees. Employers should at least give them the option of helping their community.

OUR VIEWS

Dark times ahead for the Internet?

Sometimes when I'm surfing the web, my attention span drifts and I catch myself wondering about obscure tidbits of info such as, "Who invented the whoopee-cushion?" or "Who came up with the idea for Batman?" The usual stop for people who geek-out over random tidbits of info on obscure topics such as these is www.wikipedia.com.

Wikipedia is an online encyclopedia that anyone can edit, but journalists do not use the site as a source when verifying information for that reason. College professors will scold students from citing Wikipedia in term papers. But for intensive purposes, the website is fun to browse.

Wikipedia, along with hundreds of other sites, will be shut down for 24 hours today in protest of a bill that has been put before Congress.

Bill 3261, otherwise known as the Stop Online Piracy Act (SOPA) is, as the title suggests, aimed at stemming the flow of copyrighted intellectual materials such as movies, videogames and music.

If passed, the bill would give law enforcement agencies

the ability to issue court orders to websites that are accused of facilitating copyright infringement or piracy. Some of these websites, such as Wikipedia, rely heavily on user content and do not have the manpower or ability to monitor everything that is posted to its website. The bill would prevent websites from linking to other websites that are accused of copyright infringement. Search engines such as Google could be ordered by law enforcement to filter search results to websites that are accused of copyright infringement or piracy. Individuals charged with streaming copyrighted materials online could face a maximum penalty of five years in prison for 10 counts within a six-month period.

Supporters of the bill argue that it would protect the revenue of the music and motion picture industries. The Department of Justice could order service providers to block foreign sites that allow pirated music and movies to be downloaded. Such websites are popular in China, where there is little protection for copyrighted materials.

If the bill is passed, the U.S. government would control the Internet in a manner similar to how China strictly controls its citizens access to information online. China's censorship of online material has often been called "China's Great Firewall."

Similarly, S.O.P.A. would create a firewall that would prevent Americans from accessing user-based sites based in other countries. Facebook is the most prime example of a user-based site that opposed the bill because it could prevent its users from freely sharing information, according to Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg.

The bill's opponents say

S.O.P.A. is nothing more than Internet censorship and it would change the way Americans use the web.

One of the critics of the bill is Laurence H. Tribe who said the bill would "undermine the openness and free exchange of information at the heart of the Internet and it would violate the First Amendment."

Anyway, don't expect to be able to access Wikipedia, or many of your favorite websites on Wednesday and take the time to read over S.O.P.A. and decide what side you are on.

The House has vowed to veto the bill if Congress passes it and the White House has vowed to veto the bill.

By the way, if you are surfing the web on Wednesday and you find yourself wondering who created Batman, artist Bob Kane and writer Bill Finger came up with the character. Another thing—Roman Emperor Elegabalus used a device similar to the whoopee-cushion at dinner parties, but employees at JEM RUBBER CO. in Toronto, Canada, invented the modern-day whoopee-cushion in 1920.

Citizenship has several forms

Citizenship indeed has several forms or at least types of actions.

Surely no one is missing the fact that we are in the process of choosing nominees for the election of our national leaders: president and vice-president and our U.S. Representatives (but neither of our U.S. Senators this time).

Surely almost no one is missing the fact either that Kentucky's General Assembly is in session — until April this year. They have the big jobs of redrawing legislative districts (federal and state) and developing and approving a two-year state budget along with deciding 200 bills (currently). This big project needs citizen attention and work with our state senators and representatives. This newspaper does a fine job of reporting to us, and our own legislators provide frequent columns in it. Each tells us repeatedly how to reach him. Blessings on all of them!

The often very challenging part of their and our job is getting in touch with values to guide our decisions so they will benefit everyone and be very wise for the present and future.

An important citizen action then: praying for our public officials. They have a big job that often has hard choices in the frequently long days (especially toward the end of the assembly session). They have to weigh many concerns. We need to confer with them — they were not elected to read our minds after all.

SR. MARY SCHMUCK RSM

One helpful event occurred recently. On Jan. 7 Lebanon's United Methodist Church hosted a moving Prayer Breakfast. There were about 70 people present, coming together to pray for wisdom and strength for our civic leaders and for all of us citizens.

Yet another valuable citizenship action is being facilitated by our Kentucky Council of Churches Care for Creation Unit (sharing the good work of a citizens group in Tennessee): 40 days of brief reflections on creation: its beauty and power, our need to appreciate that and that creation is a total gift to us; our responsibility to care for it — both for our benefit, that of people downwind and around the world, and for future generations.

These reflections were shared by members of numerous congregations that include: Christ Church Nashville; Keith Memorial Methodist Church, Athens; First Presbyterian Church Elizabethton, Tenn.; Lipscomb University Nashville; Sewanee University of the South; Baptist Collegiate Ministry, University of Tenn., Knoxville; United Church Oak Ridge; Concord United Methodist Church Farragut; Third Order Franciscan and Christ Church Cathedral Nashville; South-eastern Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America; Ridgedale Baptist Church Knoxville; Church of the Savior Knoxville.

Then there are various coalitions of concerned citizens throughout Kentucky who are striving to work with our legislators to develop just and wise public policy — and to engage all of us as citizens in this effort. Kentucky Council of Churches has a vibrant advocacy network that functions via email: <http://capwiz.com/kychurches/home/>. The four Catholic dioceses in Kentucky have a similar Faithful Citizen Advocate email service: <http://ccky.org/>.

Kentucky Legislature Home Page website has a lot of very helpful information about our Kentucky General Assembly — its members, status of bills, history and more:

www.lrc.ky.gov/home.htm. The people serving in our Legislative Research Commission provide invaluable competent and gracious service!

Concerning our new national healthcare law and its implementation in Kentucky, Kentucky Voices for Health does an incredible job tracking and promulgating developments: www.kyvoicesforhealth.org

There are groups that work hard to promote right to life, family support issues and many other important public policy issues. For citizens concerned about the arbitrariness of capital punishment, Kentucky Coalition to Abolish the Death Penalty can provide information and timely alerts: <http://kcadp.org/>.

Kentucky Resources Council does an amazing job of providing weekly updates on the progress of numerous Kentucky General Assembly bills. See <http://www.kyrc.org/>.

Altogether, we are not alone in our concerns about our life together in society and our efforts to help our government entities to develop policy.

>>GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Budget, redistricting take center stage this week

FRANKFORT — The second week of session saw several significant issues debated in committees. Drug abuse, weaknesses in child-protective services, and the state's debt level were topics of discussion. The committee process is intended to inform the legislators of the pros and cons of each bill. Lively debate accompanied each piece of legislation.

On Tuesday, Jan. 17, we heard from the Governor when he presented his budget proposal to the General Assembly. As I have reported in the past, our budget situation is serious and while the General Assembly directed cost-cutting measures and other efficiencies such as reducing personal service contracts and merit employees (those who are politically appointed) in the budget, the Governor vetoed those measures. Now, he will issue his solution to our state's budget problems.

We, in the Senate, take very seriously our responsibility to be fiscally prudent. Our budgets have always relied on less borrowing than either the Governor's or the House's proposals. I share your concerns regarding the level of spending and borrowing. One of the first bills approved in committee this week would mandate a cap on the state's General Fund bonded debt. Senate Bill 56 would impose a Constitutional limit on bonded debt supported by General Fund appropriations at 6 percent of revenues. This proposal would formalize that in the state Constitution, to forever ensure that future Legislatures adhere to what most agree is an appropriate and manageable level of debt. A clause in the proposal would allow the Governor to exceed the 6 percent cap in an emergency situation, only if four-fifths of the General Assembly membership agrees.

Some of the most vulnerable citizens in our state took center stage during this week's Health and Welfare Committee meeting. They again discussed how the implementation of the Governor's Medicaid managed care program was off to a rocky start. For example, the committee heard testimony from therapists in the Impact Plus behavioral health program. These good people work with abused and neglected children who are at risk of being removed from their homes. Many of these providers are worried that they might have to shut down their work, leaving 5,700 children without a safety net, because the Cabinet of Health and Family Services hasn't made its payments since Nov. 1. We need to put an end to the chaos occurring at the Cabinet. Senators from different parts of the state, Republican and Democrat, relayed concerns from their constituents who are pharmacists, doctors, and dentists who state that the Cabinet has been late or nonresponsive with their payments. These health care providers work hard and benefit communities greatly, but obviously they should not and cannot be expected to work for free.

JIMMY HIGDON
 >> STATE SENATOR

Finally, the Judiciary Committee heard testimony on methamphetamine abuse and looked at how to cut down the number of labs in Kentucky. They heard from several experts on the state's meth epidemic. University of Kentucky researchers and seasoned drug enforcement professionals from Oklahoma and Mississippi testified on the scope of meth-lab incidents, as well as the effectiveness of previous and current anti-meth legislation in the state and nation. This is a complex problem that will require thoughtful legislation. We want to curb meth abuse while being mindful of the rights of law-abiding citizens.

The House of Representatives passed its redistricting plan last week. We will be taking up the Senate's plan this week. Along with the Governor's Budget Address, we anticipate several bills reaching the Senate floor for our consideration. As always, please feel free to contact me about any of the above issues or any other matter. I will continue to write each week about the work we're doing in the Senate. But there are many other ways to stay informed about the legislature, as well.

The Kentucky Legislature Home Page, www.lrc.ky.gov, provides information on each of the commonwealth's senators and representatives, including our phone numbers, addressees, and committee assignments. The site also provides a bill tracking service, and committee meeting schedules.

By going to our eNews page, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/list-serv.htm, you can subscribe to frequent e-mail updates on what's happening at the Capitol. In addition, the General Assembly has its own blog, Capitol Notes, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/capitol_notes.htm, that will allow you to receive legislative updates at your leisure.

You can also stay in touch with General Assembly action in the following ways:

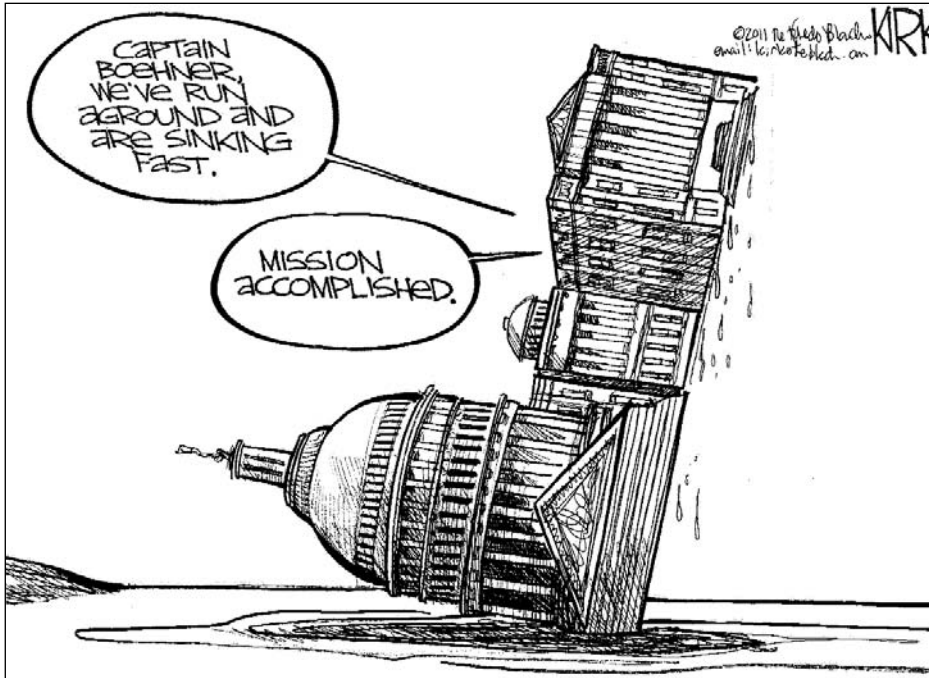

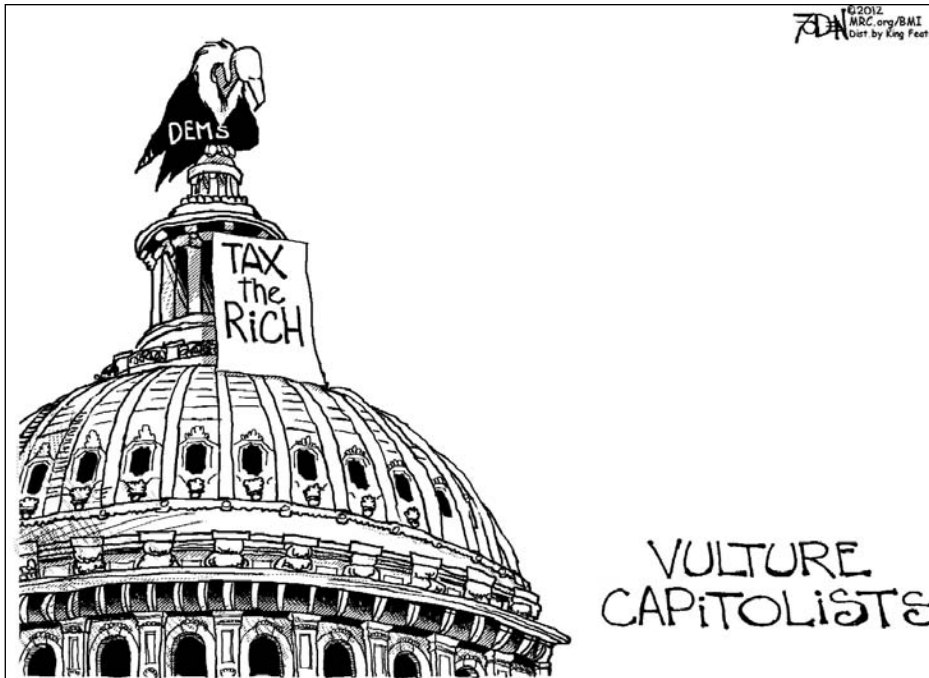

- A taped message containing information on legislative committee meetings is updated daily at 1-800-633-9650.

- To check the status of a bill, call the toll-free Bill Status Line at 1-866-840-2835.

- To leave a message for any legislator, call the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at 1-800-372-7181. People with hearing difficulties may leave messages for lawmakers by calling the TTY Message Line at 1-800-896-0305.

- You may write any legislator by sending a letter with the lawmaker's name to: Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Note: Senator Jimmy Higdon (R-Lebanon) represents the 14th District including Marion, Mercer, Nelson, Taylor, and Washington counties. He serves on the Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the Licensing and Occupations Committee, the State and Local Government Committee, the Education Committee, the Program Review and Investigations Committee, the Tobacco Settlement and Oversight Committee, and the Transportation Committee. In addition, he is also the Chairman of the Budget Review Subcommittee on Transportation. For a high-resolution JPEG file of Senator Higdon, please log on to www.lrc.state.ky.us/pubinfo/ephoto.htm.

>>U.S. CONGRESSMAN

Guthrie to host ‘Listening Session’ Jan. 26

Congressman Brett Guthrie (KY-02) will be in Nelson County to host a Listening Session Jan. 26.

During the listening session, individuals will be able to ask questions or offer ideas on what Congress should be doing. A constituent services representative will also be available to assist with any specific questions individuals may have about a federal government agency or service.

“My top priority in Congress is to represent the views of those who allow me to serve,” Congressman Guthrie said. “I strive to stay connected with constituents and listen to their ideas through a variety of methods and these Listening Sessions will help in that effort.”

The session will be at 11:30 a.m. in the Nelson County Fiscal Court room in the Old Courthouse Building, 1 Court Square, Bardstown.

One injured in KY 49 wreck

One person was treated on site and transported to Flaget Memorial Hospital for possible injuries when her SUV slid into a ditch at the side of the road on KY 49 (Loretto Road) Tuesday afternoon. The driver told Nelson County Sheriff's Deputy Dennis Wells she stepped on her brakes when a car in front of her came to a sudden stop. Three more people were transported to Flaget Memorial Hospital in two separate, unrelated wrecks Tuesday afternoon. One male was injured in a wreck on Woodlawn Road when his vehicle slid off the road. The Nelson County Sheriff's Department responded to the scene. The Bardstown Police Department responded to a wreck in which a woman and an infant were transported after a wreck on Bloomfield Road. The drivers of the vehicles were not identified by press time.

New Haven man gets 10 years on drug charges

LANDMARK NEWS SERVICE

James Michael Rust, 33, of River Road, New Haven, was sentenced to 10 years and fined $385 on multiple drug charges. Rust entered guilty pleas Dec. 19 in LaRue Circuit Court to one count each of complicity, manufacturing methamphetamine, (10 years); complicity, trafficking in controlled substance, meth (five years); complicity, possession of controlled substance (one year); complicity, buy or possession of drug paraphernalia (12 months); and complicity prescription, controlled substance not in original container (30 days). The charges stemmed from a Sept. 7 investigation by Constable Tim Ford and the Hardin County Drug Task Force.

the same building would be to make the zoning process easier for developers and others in Nelson County, so they could visit fewer locations to achieve rezonings, according to Nelson County Judge Executive Dean Watts.

However, Watts said Tuesday the building committee considered scrapping the idea of the move to the Old Library Building completely in favor of a plan to move Nelson County Code Enforcement into an area on the second floor of the Old Courthouse that contains three empty offices. This area is adjacent to the planning commission office. The code enforcement building would likely be torn down after the move, Watts said.

This idea will be presented to the other three magistrates on Fiscal Court, he added. The building committee cannot vote on any decisions.

The decision on what to do with the Old Library Building has been delayed in recent months because one of the original plans — to house the planning commission and code enforcement on the second floor — would not allow the commission enough space, commission Director Janet Johnston-Crowe said Tuesday.

“We just want at least the space the square footage that we have now,” she said. “It wasn’t enough to put both offices. ... If it was just us, the second floor would be adequate.”

The planning commission currently occupies 1,140 square feet on the second floor of the Old Courthouse. The second floor of the Old Library Building is more than 1,300 square feet, Johnston-Crowe said.

“We’re also concerned about access and security,” Johnston-Crowe said, pointing out that the elevator is toward the south side of the building while the entrance is near the north side, on an eastward wall. “How do you divide the building and then make sure that every office has access to the elevator and the ramp at the back of the building?”

Watts added that moving code enforcement to the first floor of the Old Library would require the installation of walls, a costly project.

“The integrity of the historical properties would most certainly be diminished by putting a bunch of walls inside the first floor,” Watts added.

Hutchins said he thought it may be a good idea to delay any final decisions on the future use of the Old Library Building for six to eight months while an advisory committee is formed from people outside the governmental entities involved to brainstorm ideas.

“We were wanting to get together maybe a group to decide what we’re going to do maybe 15 years, 20 years down the road,” Hutchins said. “If we’re going to make a move I want it to be something that’s going to work for the long term.”

Hutchins said he’s still open to a number of options for the building, but said he would be in favor of finding a rent-paying tenant for the building.

“If we could get a paying tenant long-term in that building and then do some in-house adjusting as far as space is concerned with codes and planning and zoning, I’d be in favor of renting the building, personally,” he said.

And the building already has a prospective tenant: according to Watts, a few years ago St. Catharine College and FABS suggested a joint-venture occupancy of the building. The two may still be interested in such a project, he said.

“We’re looking at an agreement where they would pay a minimum amount of lease money,” Watts said.

He was unsure Tuesday what services the two organizations may provide out of the Old Library Building.

City gets bids on water line project

Recommendations will go to City Council

JAMES CALVERT

jcalvert@kystandard.com

There was standing room only in City County Council Chambers Tuesday as 22 contracting companies made bids on a project to connect the Nelson County Industrial Park to an existing water main on U.S. 62.

Phillips H. Meador, an engineer for Kenvirons Inc., reviewed bids with City Civil Engineer Jessica Filiatreau and City Engineer Larry Hamilton as contractors listened to the bid amounts.

Hubert Excavating made the lowest base bid for the project at $868,400 with a bid of $47 per foot for 16-inch pipe that will be used in the project. Hubert Excavating made an alternate bid of $472,800, plus $44.75 per foot of PVC pipe used in the project.

The highest base bid of $1,510,027.22 came from Hicon Construction and the alternate bid was $472,800, plus $44.75 for each foot of PVC pipe.

Filiatreau previously said the engineer’s estimate for the project was $1.36 million. The city will receive assistance with funding the project from a loan from the Kentucky Infrastructure Authority, she said.

Meador will advise the city’s staff in selecting the best bid. Filiatreau said the bid would probably be presented to city council members at the next meeting Jan. 24.

American,” she said. “We stand on the shoulders of many and this is a privilege and an honor to be African-American. So many of our forefathers died to get us where we are today.”

Musical performers included the band Witness, under the direction of David Kimberland, the Bardstown Community Choir under the direction of Shawn Stinson and Men’s Ministry, the Bardstown High School Chorus under the direction of Jeff Stone, students from Bardstown City Schools under the direction of Tiffany Brock and Marissa Thompson and Bardstown High School students performed a mime interpretive dance. Those in attendance rose to their feet many times and clapped along to the music.

This year’s keynote speaker was Pastor Billy G. Jenkins Jr., who previously received the Whitney M. Young award from the University of Louisville for his commitment to social justice. Jenkins described the flight of the enslaved Israelites from Egypt, which is described in the book of Exodus and drew parallels to the struggle for equality faced by African-Americans in the past. He read verses from King’s “Letter from a Birmingham Jail,” which King wrote after he was arrested for participating in a nonviolent protest against segregation in Birmingham in 1963. King’s fellow clergymen wanted him to wait to protest in Birmingham, Jenkins told the audience.

“But injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere,” Jenkins said. “He was calling on his people reminding them to be what God wanted them to be. When we as a people think about how God has redeemed us collectively and spiritually, it should motivate us to want to serve him. When you begin to think about the mountains he brought us over and the valleys he brought us through, as many periods he has turned into commas, and as many more period he has turned into exclamation points, God deserves out praise!”

The audience responded in agreement to Jenkins’ words with applause and cheers.

“We have to be open to ending injustice against the vulnerable in our society since our lives have not always been what they are today,” Jenkins said.

After Jenkins spoke, the band Witness played a soulful rhythm with drums, two keyboards, an electric guitar and bass as the audience left the ceremony.

The theme of this year’s celebration was “Moving Beyond the Dream.” Rose Dodson came up with the theme and it came to her after she saw a photo of President Barack Obama and his family walking near the new monument to King in Washington, D.C. The monument was dedicated in October.

“I saw the statue in the photo with Obama and his family walking away from the statue,” Dodson said. “It’s one of the tallest in D.C. Martin Luther King had a dream and it’s time for us to move from that dream and get to real work. I just wanted to make a theme that spoke to the people.”

121 alcohol-related fatalities in 2011, down from 156 in 2010.

“We have been educating the public about drug and alcohol abuse,” Campbell said. “We’re doing something right, not just in Nelson County, but statewide.”

Nelson County improved in other areas.

The number of car accidents and injuries in Nelson County decreased slightly in 2011.

There were 1,149 car accidents in 2010 and 1,127 in 2011. The number of injuries on Nelson County roads decreased sharply from 339 in 2010 to 283 in 2011 and Campbell believes it may indicate that more people are wearing their seat belts.

In 2011, the Bardstown Police Department participated in “Click it or Ticket,” a grant program through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Bardstown Police Chief Rick McCubbin said his department was able to put more officers on patrol with the grant, which has led to increased public awareness about seat belt use and fewer injuries in crashes.

The Bardstown Police Department and The Nelson County Sheriff’s Department received traffic safety grants from state and federal government, which has allowed the city to put more officers on beats, according to Bardstown Police Chief Rick McCubbin.

“We have beat officers and traffic officers and if we can have officers concentrate on traffic enforcement it gives us a step ahead to make sure people are staying safe,” McCubbin said.

The grant also allows the department to put more officers on patrol to catch drunk drivers and speeders.

“We have been out on the road catching speeding,” McCubbin said. “We all get in a hurry but speeding is the No. 1 cause of accidents.”

Kentucky got off to a bad start in 2012 for the number of roadway fatalities.

There have already been 13 deaths on roadways in 2012, according to a press release from the Kentucky Fatality Analysis Reporting System. Four more people have died this year than the same period in 2011.

Sports show offers escape
from winter

It's outdoor sports show time again. An opportunity to get out of the cold, look at the latest goodies available for outdoor people, and plan some outings and vacations.

The 55th annual Progressive Insurance Louisville Boat, RV & Sport Show is scheduled for the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, Jan. 25-29, and will have available hundreds of new boats and recreational vehicles, and outdoor gadgets and gear.

"The Louisville show provides visitors with a one-stop shop for boats, RVs and gear for all outdoor adventures," says Kim Muncy, show manager. "The 2012 show showcases the region's top dealers under one roof, offering some of the best deals of the year, plus we have an extensive lineup of seminars and fun activities for the whole family."

Included among the seminars will be presentations by Bill Braswell, retired Kentucky conservation officer, who is now an award-winning tournament crappie fisherman, and his partner, Dan Dannenmuller. The two were named the Crappie Master team of the year of 2011.

Bill, who is from Hazard, and Dan will be presenting seminars about vertical and horizontal trolling for crappie and rigging boats for crappie fishing. Dan and Bill both will be on hand doing these seminars to meet and talk with visitors.

Before the Louisville Show, they will appear at the Knoxville Show, and then they will make presentations at Bass Pro Shop in Orlando Feb 4-5. Then prior to fishing the season opening Crappie Masters tournament on the Harris Chain of Lakes in Florida, Feb 10-11.

In addition to shopping the 2012 Louisville show, visitors can find a variety of special features, including a new feature this year, Fred's Shed. Visitors can watch, learn and do. Do-it-yourselfers or boat owners interested in maintaining, repairing or upgrading their boat or engine can head to Fred's Shed for practical, professional advice.

Free, daily seminars and talk-show format clinics covering a variety of topics, including demonstrations and question/answer sessions. Together, "The Boating Guy" and certified marine service technician "Fred, The Outboard Doctor," brings more than 50 years of boating and "wrench-slinging" experience to the Shed.

Others presentations besides Braswell and Dannenmuller include:

- Mark Menendez: Bassmaster Elite Series Angler (and Paducah native).
- Capt. Paul Willett: Ohio River Blue Cats, Bass & Hybrids.
- Stephen Hedrick: Smallmouth "guru" and owner of Punisher Lures — Jig Fishing and Float & Fly fishing technique for small-mouth.

BOYS' 5TH REGION ALL A CLASSIC

Bethlehem's Jacob Browning, left, and Thomas Mudd pressure Washington County's Evan Burkhead near mid-court Monday. Mudd hit a pair of three-pointers as the Eagles got off to a 17-2 start, finishing with 16 points, all before halftime, in a 63-43 win. Bethlehem takes on Bardstown tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Green County in the 5th Region All A Classic semifinals. The Tigers advanced with an 86-44 win at Caverna.

Tigers, Eagles meet tonight

BRANDON MATTINGLY
Landmark News Service

Bethlehem cruised past Washington County in the 5th Region All A Classic Monday, 63-43, marking the Eagles' third win over the Commanders this season.

Bethlehem coach Artie Braden said he wants his team to take it one step at a time in its quest for an All A championship.

"We tell the kids in any tournament that we're involved in that you can't win it until you win the first one," he said. "We've done that, so now we'll try to win our second one."

The win set up a meeting in Wednesday's semifinals with district rival Bardstown, which topped Caverna 86-44 Monday. The Tigers (13-5) slipped past the Eagles 64-61 last week. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m. at Green County High School.

Thomas Mudd scored eight quick points — including two three-pointers — in the opening minutes to stake Bethlehem to a commanding 17-2 lead. Washington County got a pair of threes from Thomas Pettus and Connor Riney later in the quarter, but Bethlehem held a 17-8 lead after the first quarter. Braden said Mudd — who had a game-high 16 points, all in the first half — was instrumental in the win.

"He's been big for us all year," Braden said. "Tonight it was his turn early, and he took care of business."

Bethlehem built a 37-18 halftime lead behind stellar defensive play, holding Washington County to just 31.8 percent shooting in the first half,

GIRLS' 5TH REGION ALL A CLASSIC

Banshees fall to Commanders; Tiger girls advance

BRANDON MATTINGLY
Landmark News Service

Bethlehem had no answers for Washington County's Kenya Turner Monday, falling 60-50 to the Commanders in the opening round of the 5th Region All A Classic.

Turner, the Commanders' center, had a game-high 31 points and 14 rebounds. Banshees coach Chris Taylor said his team's inability to slow Turner was a determining factor.

"Turner got us because we let her get right under the basket and we don't have anybody that can guard her when she gets that close to the rim," he said.

It was the third meeting between the two teams this season, with the home team winning each of the first meetings. This time however, the host Banshees came up short.

"We've just got to learn to win," Taylor said. "We just haven't figured it out yet."

The Commanders jumped out to an early 11-4 lead behind seven quick Shay Yocum points, and extended their lead to 10 on a three-pointer for a 16-6 advantage. Washington County kept a double-digit lead for much of the first half by getting the ball inside to Turner, but Addie Alm nailed a 30-foot three-pointer at the first half buzzer to pull the Banshees within eight at the half, 28-20.

Bethlehem's Olivia Simpson hit her second three-pointer of the game early in the third quarter to pull the Banshees within five at 32-27, but Turner and the Commanders proved too much down the stretch, pushing their lead to 14 entering the fourth

PETER W. ZUBATY/The Kentucky Standard

Bethlehem (1-17) cut the lead to single digits at 48-39 in the final quarter, but that was as close as they would get, and Washington County advanced to the second round with a 10-point win.

Washington County (7-8) faces Bardstown (8-10) in tonight's semifinals at 6 p.m. at Green County.

It ended up being a costly game for both teams, as Yocum, the Commanders' senior point guard, suffered what coach Bernard Smalley believed to be a broken ankle in the second half. Just minutes later, injuries claimed a Bethlehem player as sophomore guard MacKenzie Hagan went down with a knee injury. The Banshees were already down one player — junior Shawn Zellers — who left Friday's loss to Nelson County with a bruised wrist and was held out Monday as a precaution.

Despite the loss, Taylor was happy with his team's aggressiveness, as they were able to get to the free throw line 18 times, hitting 11 of those shots.

"We've got to keep doing what we're doing, but we've got to figure out how to win, and they've got to want it," he said.

The Banshees' next game will be at home on Monday night against Spencer County (5-12).

Tigers slip past Colonels

Bardstown punched its ticket for the semifinals Monday, riding a clutch performance from seventh-grader Shyla Calbert to a 53-52 win.

Calbert delivered 19 points, hitting three three-pointers along the way and knocking down all six of her free throws down the stretch. "They weren't guarding her — she went off," Tiger coach Paul Stone said.

Bardstown got torched in the first half by Caverna eighth-grader Madison Faulkner, who scored 16 before the break, but Stone had his team play a box-and-chaser defense on her to slow her down in the second half, holding her to just three.

"That was the difference," Stone said.

while the Eagles knocked down 57.1 percent of their shots.

Alex Marshall and Trae Abell hit back-to-back three-pointers to cut the Bethlehem lead to 13 midway through the third quarter, but a 7-0 Eagles' run ended any thoughts the Commanders had of a comeback. Bethlehem rode the momentum of that run to a 51-30 lead heading into the fourth quarter before coasting to a 20-point victory.

Despite the win, Braden said his team can improve.

"We got to where we thought, 'Well, maybe we can just take a couple of plays off,'" he said. "We're trying to get to the point where we play with intensity the whole game, because you have to to beat the big boys."

Bethlehem's Harrison Rogers hit a pair of threes and had 15 points, while Jordan Cooper, in his most extensive playing time since returning from knee surgery, added 11.

Overall, the Eagles shot 48 percent from the field after cooling down some in the second half. Washington County hit 31 percent for the game. Bethlehem forced 17 turnovers while coughing it up 12 times.

Bethlehem (13-3) did allow Washington County (3-14) to hit six three-pointers, but the Eagles buried five threes of their own, and outrebounded Washington County 37-26 in the win. The teams will meet again in next month's 19th District tournament.

Tigers thrash Colonels

Bardstown jumped out to a 20-3 lead after one quarter Monday and cruised from there on the way to an 86-44 win at Caverna in the first round of the 5th Region All A Classic.

The Tigers got 17 points from Devonte Grundy and another 15 from Jordan Brewer in the win.

Bardstown was also in action Saturday in the Autism Classic at Marion County, coming back late to slip past Frankfort, 69-67.

Grundy led the way with 23 in the win, and Brewer had 13. Anthony Myrks added 15.

fishing ... from the viewpoint of the fish. Enjoy a rare underwater view of fish reacting to — and even striking —different lures and baits during fishing and casting demonstrations by Chuck Devereaux in a 5,000 gallon aquarium stocked with native Kentucky game fish, including bass, perch, crappie and catfish, provided by KDFWR.

There also will be a half dozen experts providing hunting seminars throughout the show, and the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources interactive area will include:

- FLW Boating Simulator: Experience the excitement of tournament fishing and a chance to feel what it's like piloting a Ranger boat across open waters at high speeds.
- Laser Shot, Virtual Hunting Game: Visitors can test their skills while being guided through the proper technique by patient and knowledgeable KDFWR staff.
- 2011 Licenses and Elk

Permits: Your one-stop shop for all the licenses you'll need including fishing, hunting, sportsmen's licenses and elk permits.

Kid's Cove will include activities for children ages 15 and under, including a visit from SpongeBob SquarePants' best friend, Patrick Star.

Besides trout fishing for the kids, Kentucky Bowhunters Association's kids' archery shooting range will be open and free to children 7-16. They can learn how to shoot a bow and arrow, or improve technique.

Winter perennials have summer-like foliage

Most people would say that there is not much going on in the garden during the winter months. I beg to differ. There are dozens of plants out there doing something interesting. Some are just showing their pretty bark or their sculptural quality bare of leaves. Others are just beginning to emerge and will be blooming soon. And others just have some crazy quality that allows their foliage to look as fresh and clean as a spring garden despite the fact it is winter in Kentuckiana.

Arum, also called lords and ladies, is a great winter perennial for foliage interest. There are several different species of arum but the most common is Arum italicum and it has an interesting life cycle that makes it a great companion plant for the summer garden and a lush cover in the winter garden.

JENEEN WICHE

» IN THE GARDEN
Syndicated Columnist

Arum is a tuberous perennial that is considered deciduous because the foliage disappears in the early summer ... right now, however, the arrow-shaped green leaves with white veins provide a lush ground cover in the garden. The foliage is quite dramatic.

By early summer, just as other perennials begin to take hold the foliage of arum will begin to die back and a spathe, reminiscent of a calla lily bloom, will emerge. The flowering part of the spathe — a spadix — will then begin to fruit, displaying a stalk covered in orange to red berries; these brightly colored berries look great sticking up among other perennials.

Because arum is a tuberous plant it will fill a garden space through the years creating a lush ground cover of interesting foliage in winter. It is an adaptable plant that will tolerate full sun to part shade. Moist, well-drained soil is ideal but it will tolerate drier situations. In poorer soils, however, the foliage will die back earlier in the season.

There is a point in the year that the two qualities that make arum a valuable garden plant perform together. In late summer the foliage begins to emerge again alongside the stalks covered in red berries.

Another invaluable winter performer is the helleborus. In the last week the new foliage of Helleborus orientalis (syn. Helleborus x hybridus), or the hybrid Lenten rose, began to poke through the large leaves from last season's growth. This winter's bloom is still in tight bud but soon we will be enjoying the dappled white, burgundy and pink cup-shaped blooms nodding above and among the deeply cut foliage. Now is the time to trim away the old foliage to make room for all the new activity, however, most of mine still look perfectly clean so I may put off their winter trim for a while.

Helleborus prefer light shade and rich well-drained soil so they work well in a dappled shade garden. The hybrid helleborus are plants that have always seemed so refined in the garden so, in my mind, they are perfect in more formal garden schemes. Other helleborus species, on the other hand, are perfect for more natural designs. Try the H. foetidus, the stinking hellebore, for a more native feel. This plant will reach 1 to 2 feet in height, has deeply cut foliage and greenish-white blooms from mid-winter to early spring. The "stinking" moniker comes from the fact that the foliage has an unpleasant smell, but only if you crush it.

There are many perennials that can stand the test of a zone 6 winter. Take a stroll about the garden and you may be surprised that there are still ferns, hardy geraniums, epimediums, salvias and euphorbia that look as good as they did last spring.

Family, consumer sciences extension agent here to help

As your new Family and Consumer Sciences Extension Agent in Nelson County my job is to work for all of you. I've been here in Nelson County since May when I started as an intern with Extension. On Nov. 1, my job became official and I've been working hard ever since.

I know many of you are familiar with the goals of extension but some of you are not, and even those who know of extension tend to have the misconception the Family and Consumer Sciences Agent only works with Homemakers. It's my goal to change that perception. As the Family and Consumer Sciences Extension Agent, it's my job to help get research based information to the county about finances, nutrition and well-being. I'm here to work for everyone in the county no matter your age, background or need.

If you're looking for a good recipe to feed your diabetic mother (or just a good recipe in general), you can call me. If you're looking for a better way to budget your money, you can call me for that, too. If you want to know how to get a stain out of your clothes or furniture, I'm just a phone call away. Basically, any time you need information on home-based things, child development, personal well-being, food or finances, I'd be more than happy to help you find the answer.

Since I've been in Nelson County, we've had fairs at the Farmers Market, craft days here at the extension office, a "make your own cleaning supplies" class, second Sunday — an event designed to help you become more physically active, and more. And I'm just getting started. Coming up we have Diabetes Education Classes, Button Bracelet Day and more. I've got a new monthly newsletter — "Dollars and Sense" — filled with tons of information for busy families to help you find quick, budget-friendly recipes, get your finances on track, or give you ideas for days at home with your kids. It will be useful for parents of all ages and it's free.

DAYNA PARRETT

I'm also on the radio every second and fourth Tuesday of the month, along with the other agents in Nelson County, and the agents from Marion and Washington counties. We discuss issues and try to give you beneficial information as well as answer any call-in questions we get. I plan on starting a column here in the paper to let you know what I've been up to and what's coming up, as well as talk about a relevant issue each month. Whether it be planning for a big meal around Easter or staying safe in the July heat, it will be information everyone can use. It's important to me that you know that I'm here for you no matter your problem or demographic. If you ever have any questions, concerns or program ideas, or if you'd like more information, stop by and see me at 317 S. Third S. or call me at 348-9204.

Thank you to everyone I've met so far who has been so kind and welcoming, and to let you know that I'm very excited about my future here as your FCS Agent. I look forward to meeting many more of you and working with and for you in the future.

Why women have difficulty losing weight

There are many reasons women give as to why they can't lose weight. Whether it is having no time to exercise and eat right or not wanting to spend that extra dollar or two at the fast food restaurant to choose something healthier, we tend to make excuses.

As all of us know, we can blame weight gain or lack of weight loss on several things in our lives. However, it is ultimately up to us to change our lives to welcome a healthier lifestyle. Women need to identify what is hindering their weight loss and work to change it.

One very significant barrier to losing weight is that most women eat on the run. Yes, all of us admit it is convenient and usually satisfies the little ones because you don't even have to leave the comfort of your car. However, when you are eating and driving or just eating fast in general you are not appreciating the food in front of you, and you can actually end up eating more than for which you are hungry. Let's be honest, some of your healthier fast food options aren't very driver friendly either. Instead, take a few minutes to pack a healthy snack before leaving the house. Some nutritious options might be cheese and crackers, apple slices with peanut butter, or a turkey sandwich. If you must stop at a fast food restaurant, keep a nutrition guide in your vehicle for every fast food place you visit. Some things that may sound healthy aren't always. For example, a small plain hamburger has fewer calories than most chicken sandwiches. Always check before you order.

JOSEY CREW
CLINICAL DIETITIAN
Lincoln Trail District Health Department

Some men struggle with emotional eating, but not as much as women. Face it, we usually don't eat because we're hungry; we eat when we are bored, stressed, sad, need comfort, want to be social, to reward ourselves, or just because it's time to eat! Emotions and food should never be combined. Try to figure out which feelings cause you to eat more or cause you to eat when you aren't hungry. For a week or two, keep a diary of everything you eat and how you are feeling when you eat. If you find that when you are angry you eat more, go for a brisk walk. If you are sad or depressed, instead of turning to food, take a bubble bath and read a book. Turn your feelings away from food, and find other activities to replace the eating.

Who does the cooking in your house? Nine of 10 times, it is us, the women. That gives us unlimited access to taste-tests, bites, and spoon licks before we even sit down to eat. By meal time, you are so full you can barely eat with your family. Does this sound familiar? Find tricks to stop this bad habit of eating while preparing food. Try to chew gum while cooking. When preparing the food, look forward to eating your meal with your family instead of filling up beforehand. Get your family in on the cooking, too, and you will be less likely to sneak in extra tastes.

Another bad habit of which all of us are guilty is nighttime eating. We do so well during the day, and when dinner time hits, we eat from then until we go to bed. Nighttime snacking is a habit that can be undone if you just follow some easy steps. First, always make sure you start your day with breakfast. People who skip breakfast or lunch are prone to eat more later in the day. Also, wait about 30 minutes after eating dinner before you dig into that dessert. If you do, you might not even feel hungry for it anymore.

Instead of eating until bedtime, drink some sugar-free flavored water, or go ahead and brush your teeth so you are less likely to eat extra snacks. The saying about eating anything after 7 p.m. leads to weight gain is a myth. The only reason it is true for most is because this is when the majority of people eat most of their calories. A calorie is a calorie, no matter what time of day it is eaten. The healthier option is to spread your calories throughout the day instead of overloading on them at night.

Create rules for yourself and write them down. Then, when you come to a crossroad of going through the drive-thru, cleaning up leftovers, or having that second bowl of ice cream after dinner you can refer back to your rules for help. Nobody's perfect; I realize that some days we do need extra ice cream, we just can't make it a habit.

Nutrition counseling is available for children and adults by appointment at the Nelson County Health Center. Monthly classes are also offered for weight loss and people with diabetes. Flaget Cancer Center to offer free cancer screenings

When was the last time you had a breast cancer screening — if you're a woman — or a prostate cancer screening — if you're a man? Regular screenings could save thousands of lives. That's why the Flaget Cancer Center will provide free breast cancer screenings and prostate cancer screenings 8 a.m.-noon Saturday, Jan. 21 at the cancer center, inside the medical office building next to Flaget Memorial Hospital.

The screenings will be by appointment only. You can register by calling 350-5713 Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

And while you're there, you can take advantage of light refreshments, giveaways, health booths and more.

During the breast cancer screenings, education will be provided on breast self-examinations, as well as on statistics for mammography. A breast examination will be completed by a physician, and an order for a mammography, if indicated, will be given at this time.

Flaget Community Health Fair

The hospital will be sponsoring a health fair 9 a.m.-noon Saturday, Jan. 28 at the Civic Center. Participants will enjoy refreshments, samples, giveaways, a variety of booths, speakers, demonstrations, health screenings and more. Door prizes will also be given away. No registration is necessary to attend.

Trim Down, Bardstown!

For those who have been waiting for the hospital's annual weight-loss drive, it's about to begin, and it will be held in two locations. The community-wide event will start Monday, Jan. 30, at Bardstown Bariatric & General Surgery (upstairs in the medical office building next to Flaget Memorial Hospital). Weigh-ins will be Monday through Friday any time 8:30 a.m. through noon. Or you can weigh in at the Hospice of Nelson County office downtown, 111 N. Third Street, Wednesdays only starting Feb. 1, noon-6 p.m. A $5 entry fee covers the entire nine-week program. The fee goes into a prize kitty that will be split between weight-loss winners. There will also be door prizes for the winners. There's no need to register, but if you'd like more information, call 348-7010.

Poe named director of Hospice of Nelson County

Barbara Poe, R.N., M.S.N., M.B.A./H.C.M., has been named director of Hospice of Nelson County, a service of Flaget Memorial Hospital that provides medical and spiritual support to people in the final months of a terminal illness.

Poe, a nurse for 23 years, has worked in care as diverse as dialysis, trauma, pre-operative, recovery room and nursing home until 1995, when she began to focus on home health care.

"As I prepared for home health, I continued my education, earning my master's degree in nursing and in business administration, with a focus on health care management," Poe said. "After that, I spent 16 years in home health care."

Home health and hospice care bear many similarities, the new director said.

"In the hospital environment, you have many resources at your beck and call," she said. "In home care and hospice, you are the eyes and ears of the physician. You have to pick up on all kinds of subtle cues. I think all of my years of nursing experience have helped me to do just that."

The Shelby County native and her husband, John, who was raised in Elizabethtown, moved from Elizabethtown to Bardstown recently because "my husband and I want to be a part of this community." Her husband now serves as youth and children's coordinator for the Bardstown United Methodist Church.

In her last assignment before coming to work for Hospice of Nelson County,

Barbara Poe

Poe had been traveling from Bardstown to New Jersey every week to do home health marketing and community education. These skills will be useful for Hospice, she said.

"I plan to do some community forums and community education. I plan to speak to senior citizens. There are so many people who could benefit from our services, but they are just not aware of the wealth of services Hospice can provide."

Poe will tell her listeners that Hospice treats the person, not the disease; that Hospice emphasizes quality of life rather than length of life; that Hospice considers the entire family, not just the patient, the "unit of care;" that Hospice offers help and support to the patient and family 24/7; and that the patient and family are supported by a team of professionals, including doctors, nurses, nurses' aides, chaplains and trained volunteers.

The new director will tell her listeners that Hospice seeks to give people alert, pain-free lives so that their last days may be spent in comfort, with dignity, at home, or in a home-like setting; and that grief care for the family continues for at least a year after a patient's death.

To learn more, call 350-5570, or visit the Hospice office at 111 N. Third. "Barbara brings tremendous knowledge, experience and compassion to the table," said Flaget President Sue Downs, R.N., M.S.N., C.E.N.P. "She will be an invaluable asset to the vital health care ministry that is Hospice."

Local Circuit Court judge participates in judges college

Circuit Court Judge John David "Jack" Seay, who serves Hart, LaRue and Nelson counties, participated in the 2011 Kentucky Circuit Judges College Oct. 9-12 in Frankfort. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's Circuit Court and Family Court judges.

The judges received a case law update and attended sessions on domestic violence, digital evidence and investigation, social media's effect on the courts, court interpreters and Kentucky Drug Court. The college also offered a course on e-Warrants, the electronic warrant management system that makes processing warrants more efficient for judges and law enforcement.

"Technology is dramatically improving the way courts do business and this college devoted several sessions to its impact on the justice system," said Circuit Court Judge Paul F. Isaacs, newly elected president of the Kentucky Association of Circuit Judges. "The Kentucky State Police demonstrated how they're investigating crimes that people commit through computers and other electronic devices, several judges shared their experiences with social media and we received training on the e-Warrants system."

Circuit judges also participated in courses on foreclosure conciliation programs, search and seizure, and the implementation of House Bill 463. HB 463 took effect in June 2011 and is the most comprehensive overhaul of Kentucky's penal code in more than 30 years. All three branches of government supported the legislation, which is designed to curb the cost of incarceration without compromising public safety. Circuit Court is the court of general jurisdiction that hears civil matters involving more than $5,000, capital offenses and felonies, divorces, adoptions, termination of parental rights, land dispute title cases and contested probate cases.

Sessions specifically for Family Court judges covered the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children, parental relocation and child fatalities in Kentucky. The college also offered a course on handling cases involving children who have experienced traumatic events. Family Court is a division of

Circuit Court and has primary jurisdiction in cases involving family issues, including divorces, adoption, child support, domestic violence and juvenile status offenses.

I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Bardstown, Nelson County, Kentucky, on Wednesday, January 25, 2012 at 9:30 A.M., E.S.T., or thereabouts, the following tract of land, together with any improvements, located in Nelson County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows:

390 American Drive, Bardstown, KY 40004

Being Lot 1 of Big Springs Estates, as shown on plat of same recorded in Plat Cabinet 2, Slot 260, in the Clerk's Office of the Nelson County Court.

The successful bidder may pay the purchase price on the day of sale in cash, or in the alternative, upon a credit of thirty (30) days, with twenty percent (20%) being paid in cash on the day of sale, and a bond for the balance of the purchase price with interest at twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale, which shall be executed by the purchaser with approved surety, made payable to the Master Commissioner, having the full force and effect of a judgment, and a lien shall be retained by the Commissioner securing the payment of the purchase price. The buyer will be responsible for taxes from the year the Judgment was entered to the present date. The Master Commissioner will make a good faith effort to obtain and pay all taxes or assessments upon the property for prior years if there are sufficient funds from the sale to do so, after expenses, however this cannot be guaranteed. The property shall be sold free and clear of all non-tax lien parties named in the above-styled action, but subject to any recorded easements and rights of way, any facts which an inspection or accurate survey might reveal, and zoning regulations of Nelson County, Kentucky.

The Master Commissioner does not obtain title inspections or investigate for liens on the property. The purchaser is responsible for title inspection and/or any additional liens not named in the Judgment and Order of Sale.

The purchaser may take possession of the property pursuant to the terms of the judgment. If the judgment does not make provision for possession the buyer may seek possession of the property through the court system after payment of the full purchase price. You can contact my office for additional information.

The real estate is to be sold as a whole, subject to those items set out above. Neither the Plaintiff, Nelson Circuit Court nor the Master Commissioner's office warrants title to any purchaser. Said property is sold subject to the Judgment and Order of Sale in this case which should be reviewed carefully prior to purchase.

An acceptable surety must be present at the sale to sign a bond and the surety may not be the spouse of the purchaser(s). A surety shall not be necessary if the full purchase price is immediately paid at the time of sale. Any payments must be acceptable to the Master Commissioner in his sole discretion.

Bidders will be prepared to promptly comply with the above terms.

Daughter joining old profession will be its newest casualty

DEAR ABBY: My 18-year-old-daughter, "Olympia," is a beautiful, intelligent young woman who graduated from high school last spring, was accepted to two universities and started her first job. When she lost it recently, she was devastated. Instead of trying to find another one, she decided to turn to prostitution. When I asked her why, she said she doesn't want to work her butt off for peanuts.

Other family members and I have tried to make Olympia see reason, but she's determined to do this. I am extremely frustrated with her decision. I have warned her about the dangers she'll face in that "occupation." I know she's of age now and needs to make her own choices, but I'm afraid for her and don't want to lose her if we have a huge argument over this. What can I do?

ANXIOUS MOM
IN SACRAMENTO
DEAR ANXIOUS MOM: For an "adult," your daughter's decision-making leaves a lot to be desired. Prostitution is illegal. It's not a viable career option. Is she aware that her "line of work" offers no job security and the benefits will last only as long as her looks hold up?

JEANNE PHILLIPS

» DEAR ABBY
Syndicated Columnist

Regardless of the argument that may ensue, let her know that although you love her, you are worried sick about her, and disappointed and furious at her poor judgment because she has far more to offer than what she's selling. Warn her she's heading down a path from which it's hard to come back. If she won't change her mind, then you must accept that your daughter will have to learn her lessons the hard way. But let her know your door will be open to her.

DEAR ABBY: Are you supposed to ignore an acquaintance when you notice she's in a doctor's waiting room with you? (Especially if it's a specialist's office that makes a particular condition obvious to an otherwise non-privy person?)

This has happened to me twice recently. One time, I avoided the acquaintance; the other, I broke the silence and said, "Is that you, So-and-So?" Both times it was awkward. I can understand why someone wouldn't want to be seen at certain doctors' offices. Should I have played dumb?

STRIVING

FOR DISCRETION
IN NEW YORK

DEAR STRIVING: No, you should not have "played dumb." In the future, you should acknowledge your acquaintance, but refrain from asking questions. Any questions, including, "How are you?"

DEAR ABBY: I'm being married in a few months and there's still so much to do. The only thing I have decided so far is the date and location. I have gotten so stressed that I have actually passed out.

I keep asking my fiance to help me with decisions and particulars for the wedding, but he says, "It's your job. You're the bride." Then he continues his lazy ways around the house. How do I get him to help me plan our wedding?

BRIDE IN A PANIC
DEAR BRIDE: How do I get YOU to realize you can't change your fiance, and that this is the man he will be after your wedding? If you manage to pull this event together by yourself, you will still have a husband who is lazy around the house and refuses to help you even when you become so stressed that you pass out.

Your fiance isn't the last man on planet Earth. If he doesn't have any good qualities — you mentioned none — you can do better than this.

WED., Jan. 18
The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★★ Your fiery style and lively nature might not come out immediately. How you approach a problem and what you do with it could change radically. Your ability to move through issues and try uniquely different ideas defines you. Tonight: A night of fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ Sometimes it is a pleasure to allow another person to zero in on your priorities and take the lead. Why not? Listen to the feedback and see it change given some time. You could be stunned by this person. Tonight: Try someone else's idea of fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ You could be taken aback by a situation. Nevertheless, you are able to deal with it once you get your bearings. Others have better suggestions, but ultimately you need to do what works for you. Indulge an unpredictable friend, for now. Tonight: Go along with another's plans.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★★ Pace yourself. You could be surprised by what you hear, most likely from someone in authority. You might need to regroup afterward. Remain confident that you have the wherewithal to handle this issue. Tonight: Let your hair down.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ The morning finds you in a funk, but one that leaves quickly. You will be delighted by midafternoon, when a challenge perks you up. Once more, ideas flow, and you emerge as a cheerful and flirtatious person. Tonight: As you like it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★★ In the morning, make calls, schedule meetings and, at the same time, breeze past a problem with ease. If you don't allow a situation to become a big deal, it won't be. In the afternoon, turn off your phone. Tonight:

Home is where the heart is.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ If you want to get past a financial barrier, the time is in the morning. Otherwise, you could be overwhelmed by what might be on your plate. Once opposite sides find a connection, the need for closeness returns. You could feel vulnerable and closed down again, but why? Tonight: Where the action is, of course!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ Use the morning for anything important. You are energized and can see the many different sides of an issue. Your intuitive and intellectual skills peak in the morning. By afternoon, your financial savvy may go down the drain. Use care. Tonight: Your treat.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★★ Though in a funk when you wake up, by the end of the day, you are a shooting star, not to be stopped. You could surprise a child or loved one with your effusive self-expression. Tonight: Others seem to sway with your desires.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ If you are going to succeed in a key venture, the first part of the day is best. By late afternoon, you need some downtime. Do exactly that. Otherwise, you could become today's grouch of the Zodiac! Tonight: Get some extra R and R.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ You handle a lot and, in the long run, you succeed, complete and/or do whatever is necessary today. Make time for a personal project, too. Schedule a meeting for late in the day. Tonight: Work with a surprise.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★★ Look at the big picture. Once you detach from a difficult situation, you'll feel better. Listen to what is being said more carefully. You will understand where someone is coming from and could see a bias that might be important to identify. Tonight: Early to bed.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! Gung Hay Fat Choy

What year is it?

The Chinese tell a story that, one day, a great teacher named Buddha invited all the animals to a meeting. Only 12 animals came. Buddha named a year after each of these animals.

The Chinese year starting January 23, 2012, is named after the dragon, a powerful, mythical creature.

Find the year you were born. Then work with a parent to figure out the animal representing the year they were born by counting back counter-clockwise. (Someone born in 1962 would be born in the year of the tiger.)

I was born in the year of the _____
My parent was born in the year of the _____

In China, January 23, 2012, is the beginning of the new year. In China it will be the year 4710! Chinese New Year does not fall on the same date each year, although it is always in January or February.

On New Year's Day, Chinese people add a year to their age, no matter when they were born. This is the biggest birthday party of all!

Worldwide Celebration

Chinese communities around the world celebrate the new year with fireworks, parades, gongs, music, eating and gift-giving. Special foods are prepared and homes are cleaned and then decorated with the color - a color which symbolizes happiness and good luck to the Chinese.

Children give each other and . Parents give children good luck wrapped in red paper.

Use the code to get some details on how to celebrate Chinese New Year!

- = A ▲ = M
- ▲ = C ◀ = N
- ▶ = D ▼ = O
- ◻ = E ◀ = R
- = G ◻ = S
- ▶ = H ◻ = Y

Golden Dragon Parade

People look forward to the Golden Dragon Parade, a Chinese New Year tradition.

According to legend, the Golden Dragon, "Gum Lung," has been asleep for a year. He wakes up only for the parade. To make sure he stays awake for the entire parade, people throw firecrackers in his path.

San Francisco holds the largest Golden Dragon Parade outside of Asia. It takes 100 people to carry the colorful, bright-eyed dragon. More than 600,000 firecrackers will be thrown. The dragon's head is 6 feet long. The entire dragon is more than 200 feet long.

Join the Excitement!

Tell your friends, "Gung Hay Fat Choy!" That means "Happy New Year!" in Chinese.

This dragon overslept. Help him get to the parade!

The World Together

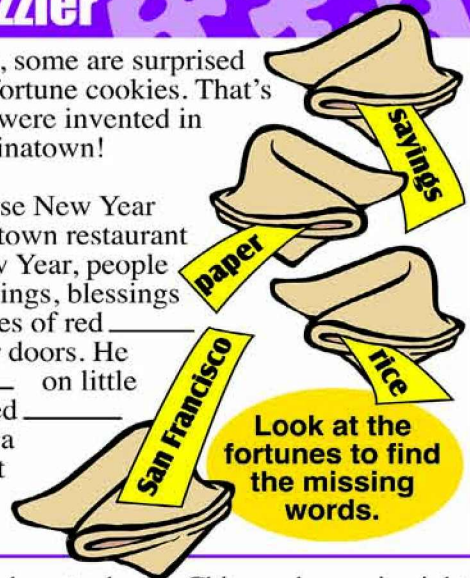

Today most communities are made up of people from many parts of the world. Look through the newspaper to find examples of words, products, foods and celebrations that show the diversity in your community.

Kid Scoop Puzzler

When people visit China, some are surprised to find that there are no fortune cookies. That's because fortune cookies were invented in _____'s Chinatown!

Many years ago, a Chinese New Year tradition gave one Chinatown restaurant owner an idea. Each New Year, people in Chinatown write greetings, blessings and sayings on long pieces of red _____ and hang these near their doors. He wrote these _____ on little pieces of paper and folded cookies around them for a crispy dessert treat. What a fortunate dessert!

Look at the fortunes to find the missing words.
